

Bruce Rauner's top priority if he's re-elected is crushing labor unions, he told the Chicago Tribune.

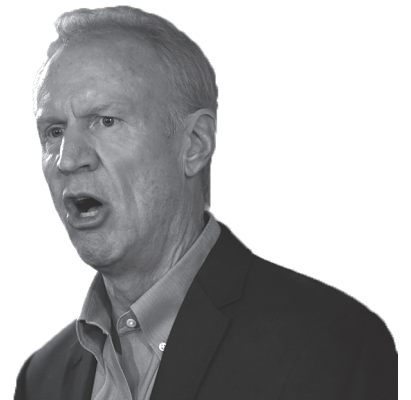

Asked what would be different in a second term, Rauner said “he’s counting on the courts to give him several ‘transformative’ wins over organized labor.”

He’s referring to Janus v. AFSCME, a case Rauner initiated and calls his own. It’s a scheme to rob unions of resources and take away our freedom to join together in strong unions.

In another interview a few months ago, Rauner explained that by “transformative” he means to “change the power structure in Illinois and across America.”

Rauner’s idea of “changing the power structure” is taking power away from working people and giving it to his fellow millionaires and billionaires.

“If we win, it will transform state government, local government and school districts,” Rauner said. “I will be able to have thousands of employees not be in the union.”

Rauner wants to divide us, but if every member recommits to our union, we can turn back his attacks and stay AFSCME Strong!
